

3  Interpretation

Interpretation asks and answers the question: “What does the story mean?” Now that we have accurately observed the facts, we can properly interpret and discern the timeless truths that we learn from this biblical account.

In this step, we will list at least two timeless truths from this story (there are usually more than two). The way that we determine if a truth is timeless is by asking: “Is this true for all people, in all places, and at all times?”

Refer to the principles of Interpretation found in Essentials.
